

THE LAUGH WAS ON THE DOCTOR

BURGLAR HELPS HIMSELF TO WHISKEY WHILE RIFLING MEDICO'S POCKETS.

Dr. Cowden of the Miners' hospital was robbed at an early hour yesterday morning. He was robbed in his own room, was a witness to the robbery, in fact, an accessory to the fact. He and Dr. Mensendeck occupy the same apartments, and Cowden was just dozing off after a return from a late call. A man came into his room, and took up his trousers, and carried them to the adjoining apartment, then returned with them. The man was fully dressed, and walked easily without attempt at concealment. By the side of the doctor hung his coat in which reposed his trusty revolver. But he didn't draw; he just yawned as the burglar calmly poured out a drink from the decanter, smacked his lips in appreciation of some of the Nevada's Club's Old Crow, rubbed the aroma in with the back of his hand and walked out. Then the doctor went to sleep.

When the man of medicine awakened yesterday morning and drew on his trousers, he noticed a suspicious lightness in the pockets. He dived down into the depths and drew forth a blank where the night before there had reposed thirty-five plunks. Then he remembered the man in the room and called to his colleague, and told him that he had seen him going through his anties. "I saw you up last night, doctor," he said. "Were you sick?"

"Not I," was the response; "I never slept so soundly in all my life."

"What! Do you mean to say that you did not come into my room, and walk about it, and help yourself to a drink of whiskey?"

"I should say not."

Dr. Cowden looked vaguely at Mensendeck, then slowly searched the remaining pockets of his trousers. Finally he spoke.

"Doctor," said he, with conviction, "I am an ass."

"Shush!" replied the doctor. "Let it go as a burro. I know you are a kicker, but the other. Tut, tut, my dear fellow."

Then Cowden told him all about the man in the room, the drink of whiskey, and the disappearance of the thirty-five. The other doctor shook his head solemnly and finally suggested to the doctor the propriety of telling his troubles to a policeman. Chief Malley was sent for, and after hearing the story, laughed heartily.

"You know who it is," Dr. Cowden cried eagerly.

"No; how should I know. You saw him; I didn't. What did he look like?"

"I give it up. Have a drink." "Excuse me," said the chief. "I'll have to take this whiskey for evidence, for you say that the burglar took a drink of it."

The doctor gasped and then, buttoning his coat, cried:

"I'm glad I put my trousers on before you came. I suppose you would have wanted those, too, for evidence, and it looks like snow."

"It's a cold day, Doc," said Mensendeck, consolingly, as they watched the retreating form of Chief Malley, his right hand clutching the evidence.

EDITOR VISITS CAMP OF RAWHIDE

FOUNDER OF GOLDFIELD NEWS IS FAVORABLY IMPRESSED.

James F. O'Brien, the founder of the Goldfield News, was in the city yesterday, having come from his old stamping ground, Goldfield, on his way to his present home in Reno. Mr. O'Brien was recently at Rawhide and he says that the place appeals to him as strongly as did Goldfield in the early days of that famous camp.

"I did not stay long in Rawhide," said Mr. O'Brien, "but I saw enough of it to appreciate the sort of a camp it is, and that it is going to be. I have become interested in the Big Four lease, and the ground looks very good to me. We have three blocks of ground, two on the Bald Hornet claim and one on the Eagle Bird."

"There are without a doubt some of the best showings in Rawhide that have ever been found anywhere, and there is no reason why it should not make a great camp; in fact, there is everything in favor of its doing so. The streets are crowded and the right kind of people are getting in there, the people with money, who make mines and a camp."

Good reports come from the Nevada King Mining Company's property, which is located in the Royal Tiger country. The property sidelines the Royal and endlines the Royal Coachman. Leases are at work on the ground, and are getting fine ore. It would be strange if there were not some good developments in that part of the country, for it is in the heart of the mineral belt, and only a few days ago they struck on the Stinson lease of the Royal Tiger group, rock that went five dollars a pound.

The Bushwhacker, which has been incorporated into the Bushwhacker Mining Company, and which is also in that good country, only a few days since encountered three feet of ore which averaged better than $500 a ton. These are only a few of the good things in Rawhide.

Tom Kearns, of the famous Kearns leases, has returned to Rawhide from San Francisco, where he completed arrangements for the formation of a water company for the new camp. It is proposed to sink wells three miles outside the camp, and pipe the output to the top of Balloon mountain. The supply will be sufficient to furnish Rawhide with its needs, operate a forty-stamp mill, and generate electricity for illuminating and power. The amount necessary for these projects, $250,000, has been subscribed. Oil will be used for generating the steam with which to operate the pumps. Machinery for the stamp mill has been ordered from Salt Lake.

THIRD OFFICER NEVADA POLICE

The third ranking officer of the Nevada police has been appointed. He is J. R. Hunter of Las Vegas.

Hunter has been appointed First Sergeant, and therefore ranks next to Superintendent Cox and Inspector Cahlan.

According to the Las Vegas Age, Hunter has been a colonel of militia and a captain of cavalry, was commanding officer at Fort Sam Houston for a time and has seen service along the Texas-Mexican frontier.

Hunter has been ordered to Goldfield for service, and there will meet the squad.

The position of sergeant in the Nevada police carries with it a salary of $125 a month.

DIVIDEND IS PAID BY THE FLORENCE

GOLDFIELD, March 4.—Monday the Florence Mining Company ordered the payment of the second dividend, amounting to $105,000, which still leaves $250,000 in the treasury. George Wingfield retired from the directorate of the company, his many other interests demanding his entire attention. The Florence mill will be ready to start in six weeks, and at that time a force of 600 men will be put to work in the mine. The Goldfield Rosebud resumed today, and a much more hopeful feeling prevails than has existed for six months.

WILL BE HELD IN ABEYANCE

RUNNING TIME OF TRAINS WILL NOT BE CHANGED JUST YET.

The contemplated change in the time table of the Tonopah and Goldfield road, will be held in abeyance for ten days or so. Beginning with Sunday next, the west bound train was to leave here in the evening, but there has been an objection to the change.

"There has been no kick as far as this end of the line is concerned," said Superintendent Hedden, yesterday. "The objection has been made to the Southern Pacific at Reno. Our idea was to get the best service for this end of the line, and experience had taught us that the evening train was the most popular, particularly in the summer months. There was also to be added a dinner from Goldfield. The train would leave Goldfield at 5:30 in the evening, and Tonopah at 6:55. If a man were going to Reno, this would bring him there in the morning, and he could leave again on the following night for home. As it is now a trip to Carson or Reno consumes two days. The night train would connect with No. 5, west bound, at Reno, and No. 10, east bound."

INCREDIBLE RICH STRIKE IS MADE

Authentic information comes from various sources to the effect that just before last week's temporary lay-off of the greater part of the force at the Mazuma Hills mine, what appears to be the greatest ore discovery in the history of the property was made. Men who have recently visited the lower workings say that the lower tunnel more than 600 feet from the portal has entered a body of picture rock, the like of which challenges belief. A recent visitor says that he saw the great strike of a couple of weeks ago and that it will not begin to compare with the latest strike.

In place of the five inches of rock near the hanging wall fairly yellow and glittering with gold are twelve inches of equally as rich material in the same position and that there are now fully five or six feet of ore that shows free gold all through it.

As an evidence of the substantial nature of this marvelous ore shoot it is reliably reported that with only a force of two men here, three tons have been taken out in a day whose value, if told, would not be believed. It was stated by conservative men that without exaggeration the two men took out a fortune in one day last week. It is safe to say that with its present insignificant force of two men the Mazuma Hills is making a producing record that, were it known, would be the envy of the widely known mines that are employing a host of miners.

Steps toward the commencement of work on the proposed Mazuma Hills stamp mill advanced another stage this week when the survey to ascertain if it is feasible to tap the water line leading from the head of Burnt Canyon and divert the needed water to the Mazuma Hills mine, was completed. The report shows that the divide between Burnt Canyon and Wild Horse Canyon, the next canyon south, is not only much higher than the divide between Wild Horse Canyon and Seven Troughs Canyon, but that it is 450 feet higher than the proposed millsite on the ground of the Mazuma Hills mine.

It is believed that the effect of this report will be the decision of the company to erect its mill on the south slope of the prominent hill on the north side of Seven Troughs Canyon, which comprises its domain, but it is not yet known whether the water for the mill will be diverted from the Burnt Canyon Mazuma pipe line on the divide or whether at some point near Mazuma.

The building of the mill at the mine, in doing away with the cost of a long ore haul, will enable the company to mill a much lower grade of ore than it otherwise could.—Seven Troughs Miner.

EXPECTS LIFE IMPRISONMENT

WEAVERVILLE, Cal., March 4.—"I am in for it. I expect to get life imprisonment for this, but I hope that 'Baby John' will get life, too," said Mrs. John Martin this morning, when she was told that the Alameda county Grand Jury had returned an indictment charging her with dynamiting Judge Ogden's home in Oakland, nearly a year ago.

"The hand of every man is against me," she said, despairingly, "and there is no likelihood of justice being done to me."

The love she formerly professed to have for "Baby John" has changed to vengeful hate, and there is nothing too low and vile for her to lay at his door. She talks a great deal in her cell, particularly when she can get a listener, and she is not particular who the listener is. She loves to dwell on the past and glorify the trials through which she has passed. She is still without an attorney, though she has corresponded with several to no purpose.

BIG SMELTER FOR WASHOE COUNTY

A smelter for Washoe county is absolutely assured. In the past there have been several attempts to establish a smelter in this section of the State, but all have failed. Now the owners of the great Commonwealth mine, which is located near Washoe in this county, are preparing to go ahead and build a smelter almost immediately. The only question that remains to be decided is whether the smelter shall be only for the ores of the Commonwealth itself, or whether it shall be built on a scale great enough to permit the treating of ores from all parts of the State.

The Commonwealth people are in a position to go ahead with the enterprise without any delay. They have all the necessary base ores and the capital for the big undertaking is right at hand. The secretary of the company and all the allied corporations, in which practically the same people are interested, is now in Goldfield and will return to his head offices in a few days. The local manager, Mr. Clapp, is reticent about his company's plans, but it can authoritatively be announced that the work will be begun in the near future.

The Commonwealth is one of the great mines of the State. It now has blocked out over 700,000 tons of low grade ore which will yield a fair profit on every ton. The sinking of a double compartment shaft 500 feet below the lowest level yet obtained will be begun within a few days, and it is expected that higher grade ore will be encountered before the thousand foot level is reached. The shaft is now down over 500 feet, and a great deal of development work has been done. Zinc and lead predominate in the mine and these metals will be utilized in the running of the smelter.

The smelter will probably be built right near the mine, and will be a valuable addition to the State's industries.—Reno Gazette.

WILL UNDERGO OPERATION.

An automobile made a hurried trip from Manhattan, bringing in as a passenger a man named Gange, who was suffering from appendicitis. He was taken to the Miners' hospital, and his case placed in the hands of Dr. Hammond, who will probably operate on him.

BUTLER THEATRE MAKES HAPPY HIT

The Butler theater has sure made a happy hit in its bill of this week, for it has proved a house puller, and a hand getter. It is a show that appeals especially to the little ones, but there has not been anyone in the house yet, who has been too big to be infected with the contagion of its fun. The "Moon Goblins" is one of the funniest things that has been on since the ridiculously funny "Welsh Rarebit"; and "The Gainsborough Hat," is something that appeals irresistibly to every theatergoer. It's funny enough to be framed. The "Miser's Nephew" is a bit of realism that holds the interest to the end. "Scenes in London" is one of the most instructive films that has been put on for a long time, and is extremely interesting to all classes. "The Clown Donkey" is where the children get in again, but if anybody can view the funny antics without shouting, he is a wonder.

Last night was the biggest Wednesday night that the theater has had since the "Passion Play." Tonight is the last night of this good show, and you don't want to miss it.

MINING MAN IS BEATEN BY THUGS

RAWHIDE, Mar. 4.—J. F. Flynn, mining engineer, who developed the Mohawk and Combination properties at Goldfield and who is now superintendent of the Balloon Mining Company at Rawhide, was waylaid, beaten and robbed by three armed men last night on his way from the Ligator claim to the camp. He was coming down the gulch between the claim and the Balloon Hill property, when he was attacked.

He gave battle, but was overpowered, badly beaten and robbed of the little money he possessed, several wads of sample ore and a diamond scarf pin. When he arrived in the camp and gave the alarm he was covered with blood which flowed from cuts on his face and head.
